The NSC has set a May 18 deadline for completing the balance of the IG study.

On the issue of interim restraints, there was movement toward general consensus in favor of continuing the current policy of taking no action to undercut existing agreements, provided the Soviet Union exercises similar restraint. The IG directed the Working Group to discuss this topic again on May 12 and to prepare a paper for IG approval and submission to the NSC.

The IG also discussed other START issues and directed the Working Group to prepare recommendations or options for NSC approval or decision. The IG reached agreement on the following topics:

- Our initial START proposal should not include limits on maximum ALCM loadings per bomber.

- The telemetry encryption issue should be included in the broader topic of access to flight test information.

- Treaty duration should not be discussed by the Working Group, pending high-level guidance.

- On the issue of ICBM refires, OSD should prepare a one-page paper for the Working Group meeting on the distinction between missiles, deployed missiles and missile launchers.

- The Working Group should not consider SLCM limits, as the issue was covered in the NSDD.

- ACDA should call a meeting on START collateral constraints, including new types and a ban on future heavy ICBMs.
